ANOTHER GOOD DAY'S RECEIPTS

SPLITTERS GOT FAIR SUPPLY
FISH FROM BOSTON
YESTERDAY.

Today was a pretty good fish day locally and dealers found a fair amount of fresh fish to take care of before night. The largest fare went to the General Seafoods Corporation, the dragger Gertrude Parker bringing down 98,000 pounds to fillet. Overland receipts were small, amounting to but 20,000 pounds. Local boats fishing on the shore had a fair day's fishing, landing a total catch of 20,000 pounds. Only 14 gill netters hauled their gear yesterday and landed 30,600 pounds.

The Winthrop, owned by the O'Brien Trawling Company, reached port late last night and two other trawlers are due tomorrow morning, the Boston College, owned by the Frank J. O'Hara Company, and the White Cap, a Bay State vessel.

Dogfish on Emerald Bank.

Dogfish, dreaded enemy of the hook and line fishermen, have again made their appearance on Emerald Bank, one of the earliest on record, according to reports brought to Halifax by Capt. Joe Emberley, master of the auxiliary schooner, Catherine M. "Heavy weather was encountered on the banks and towards evening last Sunday the crew were able to make a two-tub set in 50 fathoms of water," Capt. Emberley said. "There was a dogfish on nearly every hook and it was not until 9 o'clock that we were able to clear our gear."

Fishing Off Maine.

The gill netter Elizabeth and James has taken up her nets in local waters, and will set tomorrow off the Maine coast, marketing her fares in Portland.

Sardine Plants to Open.

Announcement has been made that the 25 sardine factories within a radius of 15 miles of Portland will not resume operations until some time during July, although they generally open up each spring around the middle of April. The canning factories have been closed since last October.
